

Call for a consultancy assignment Monitoring and Evaluation for Pax Christi International (PCI)

PCI is currently seeking a Monitoring and Evaluation Consultant to support the writing of an interim project report to be submitted by the end of September 2022.

Type of Contract: Freelance Consultancy agreement

Assignment description

- Assist PCI's project coordinator in writing the interim report relating to a project focused on training people in Kenya and DRC on a daily basis during the period from 5 to 30 September 2022
- Review and analyse videos and reports from the field
- Organize the collected info systematically
- Fill in the M&E Framework

Qualifications / Profile

- Bachelor's Degree in economics, business administration, statistics, social sciences, international relations, or a related field
- Proven experience in report writing and good knowledge of project management techniques for monitoring and evaluation
- Mathematical reasoning, analysis, and data interpretation
- Ability to work with a large amount of data and spreadsheets
- Excellent knowledge of French and good knowledge of English
- Excellent time management and organizational skills
- Ability to meet deadlines

Application Process

Please send your CV, a cover letter, and an offer with your availability, suggested approach, and requested remuneration via email at t.devivo@paxchristi.net by August 31, 2022.

Only those candidates on the shortlist will be contacted for an interview, which will take place via Zoom.

About Pax Christi International

Pax Christi is an international Catholic movement for peace. Founded to promote reconciliation in Europe at the end of the Second World War, Pax Christi is now active on six continents, bringing together people and groups from many different countries and cultures to shape and act upon a shared vision of peace, reconciliation, and justice for all. As a faith-based network, Pax Christi believes that religion should be a force for peace rooted in social justice, respect for human rights, and care for the integrity of creation. While it is an organization that is Catholic in both origin and tradition, Pax Christi is also autonomous, and is firmly committed to cooperation with other religious traditions, as with all who share its values, principles, and objectives. Pax Christi places a high priority on identifying and pursuing nonviolent means of resolving conflicts, leading to peaceful societies based on human rights, democracy, and the rule of law. Pax Christi works to create a culture of peace, collaborating with many different organizations, networks, and coalitions, including in the crucial area of international advocacy and campaigning.